depicting the arch-father and creator of Ancient Kuzhebar "Yagdyn Staroy."

On the sweat-shirt you can see the arch-father and creator of Ancient Kuzhebar "Yagdyn Staroy. According to ancient kuzhebarian tales he has four faces looking to the four winds. Each face was blown by the special wind, his "caboo" were fluttering in these winds. (* "Caboo" are special unaccountable outgrowths on Yagdyn's faces.) Yagdyns being exists in a turquoise-blue ambience similar to water. His usual attribute is a big crystal-clear fancifully formed seashell, Yagyn lets it sound with the help of his caboo. Yagdyn is always accompanied by "Tupata" mystic creatures, who help by realization of his intention (on the left and on the right side of Yagdyn). Tupatas are everpresent, they are usually shown with two heads looking opposite. According to kuzhebarian tales they possess the unique capability to transform themselves and their ambience. Ancient Kuzheba's aborigines appreciated these capabilities of Tupata. Ancient kuzhebariean hallowed larvae and pupas like heralds of Tupata, because they could change their biological form during their life.
